COUNCILMEN ON INSPECTION TRIP

Gettysburg Wants to Know how Other Towns have Done and what Success Attended their Experiments at Paving Go by Auto.

For the purpose of learning through the experience of other towns, and getting more data on the street paving proposition, a party of Gettysburg borough officials went to Hanover and York this morning by automobile and were entertained by representatives of the councils of those two places. In the Gettysburg party were Burgess Eicholtz, Councilmen Gilbert, Dougherty, Hartman, and Baughman.

At Hanover they were met by Burgess Stokes who conducted them over the various streets where paving has been done. The fine appearance of some of the brick work was pointed out, as were the places where it had been necessary to dig up the streets. The manner in which repairs had been made to the paving was also pointed out, and the Gettysburgians enjoyed a most profitable hour with the genial chief executive of the neighboring town.

From Hanover the party went on to York where they consulted further. City officials there told of the unsuccessful work with the brick paving in some parts of the city and of the more or less successful results secured in others. The bricks on one street were found to be uneven with deep depressions while on other streets no complaint was registered by the city officials who explained the causes for the difference in the wearing of the roadway.

In York the Gettysburg councilmen were also shown samples of asphalt macadam and they were apparently much pleased with what they found in this variety of road. It has worn well and the York hosts told their Gettysburg guests that this had been generally satisfactory.

The return was made early this afternoon. Within the next few days another trip will be made, taking in Carlisle and Harrisburg, and possibly Mechanicsburg where, it is said, may be found the finest brick paving in this section.

BUYS HEIRLOOM

Motorist Takes Fancy to Piece of Furniture and Makes Purchase.

Passing the home of Miss Kate L. Wagner, at the east end of New Oxford, some time ago, Francis C. Mirean, proprietor of the Franklin House, at Doylestown, Bucks county, was attracted by the appearance of a quaint settee on the porch. Mr. Mirean stopped his machine, and after examination made a bid for the piece of antique furniture. Miss Wagner, however, was reluctant to sell the settee, which had been in her family for 135 years and turned down the gentleman's offer. Considerable correspondence followed, and finally Miss Wagner sold it, realizing a goodly amount for the heirloom.

GUIDES ON HAND FOR THE TESTS

Asked Numerous Questions Concerning Battlefield. Others to be Given their Trials within a Few Days.

The first lot of battlefield guides, who applied to the National Park Commission for the permits to continue their business on the field, appeared this morning for examination. They were notified by letter to be present at the offices of the commission at nine o'clock and they were on hand at the hour named. Others have been advised of the dates for their tests and all the applicants will be examined within a few days.

To those who responded this morning a written examination was given and it is understood that the same manner of test will be applied to all. A list of fifty questions has been prepared for the testing out of the guides' knowledge of the field. Of this number only twelve or fifteen were given to each applicant. It required something over an hour to answer all of the questions given, and to some of the candidates more time was given.

It was requested that they should all make their answers as brief as possible, at the same time being full enough to show the guide's knowledge of the matter in hand. In reading out the questions Colonel Cope, who conducted the examination, skipped about in the list, giving for example numbers two, seven, eleven, twenty five and so on as was desired. It is understood that no set of candidates will get the same questions given to any other set.

All of those who applied for examination this morning were admonished to keep absolutely secret the questions which they were asked and they are guarding carefully the secret entrusted to them. It should be found that they violated this confidence it is likely that they would at once be refused the coveted permits.

As soon as the Park Commission has licensed the guides for work on the field Burgess Eicholtz will begin the enforcement of the borough ordinance issuing borough licenses, only to those who hold the War Department permits.

PAIR OF SIXES

Title of Farce Has Had Much to Do with its Success.

Like all things which succeed, the title "A Pair of Sixes" seems to be just the exact name to fit the supremely funny farce which will be seen at Walter's Theatre on Wednesday night, September 15th. It refers merely to the incident in the play which caused two partners to disagree and start a whirl of fun which is now being enjoyed the country over. Beyond that, the title has nothing to do with what has been termed our great American indoor card game. There is, of course, a queen of hearts in the cast. She is a mighty big card and is probably the only instance where a lone queen beat a pair of sixes.—advertisement.

ROAD ROLLER IN ACCIDENT

Trouble at Keckler's Hill when Brakes Fail to Hold Heavy Machine. Wagon badly Damaged but Driver Escaped Injury.

Keckler's Hill, north of town, was this morning the scene of an accident which threatened serious results. The big road roller being used for the resurfacing of the Biglerville Road got beyond control on the sharp incline and, before it had been brought to a stop, had wrecked a wagon and narrowly missed killing a horse.

For some time past a gang of men, under direction of the State Highway Department authorities, has been at work resurfacing the macadam. They began at the north end of the three mile stretch and have now reached the foot of the long hill. As the stone are placed on the road, the roller "irons" them out and then screenings are placed on top and further rolling is done.

The roller was being operated in this way this morning when John N. Shultz drove up with a heavy wagon. The engineer failed to hold the machine and the ponderous roller bore down on the horse and vehicle. Mr. Shultz jumped in time to save himself but the horse was thrown down and partly under the wagon. The weight of the wagon was sufficient to check the roller until the engineer could get it fully stopped.

One wheel of the wagon was mashed to splinters and the wagon was otherwise damaged. The horse was got out of its uncomfortable position with some difficulty, and all were surprised to find that it was practically unhurt.

ARRESTED FOR THEFT

Accused of Stealing Coins and Jewelry from Marine Officers.

Charged with the theft of a number of rare coins and a fraternity pin from officers at the United States Marines' camp here, Stanley Stage was arrested on Wednesday evening and put in jail to await a hearing. The collection of coins was owned by Lieutenant Louis S. Fagan Jr. and the pin by Lieutenant L. H. Miller. Local officers got their first clue in the case when one of the coins was found in payment at the Lazzari fruit store by another boy, who said he got it from a brother of young Stage. The brother was summoned from one of the moving picture houses, but, before leaving, dropped several coins on the floor. They were recovered and he admitted having taken them from the trunk of his brother, Stanley.

The latter was accordingly arrested. The Sigma Nu fraternity pin was found on some of his clothing. Other people about town have found that the coins have been passed on them. They are rare pieces from Haiti and Dominican Republic, which Lieutenant Fagan secured while in the service there.

Other losses at the camp during the summer included some jewelry and money amounting to about $100. Young Stage had been employed about the place but was discharged some days ago.

The Marine officers left to-day after a pleasant six weeks spent here. The two young officers concerned in the case remained here for a hearing.

Many Local People Go to Grangers. Prominent Workers from Many Different Sections Present Arguments for the Cause.

The scores of Adams County people who went to Williams Grove this morning for the big day of the Grangers' Picnic found in full swing the observance of Woman Suffrage Day.

The principal address of the afternoon was made by Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Woman Suffrage Association. Dr. Shaw is an eloquent speaker for the cause and the rare opportunity offered to hear her brought large crowds.

Other speakers were Miss Mary E. Bakewell, of Pittsburgh, well-known because of her interest in suffrage, and Mrs. Mabel Cronise Jones of Harrisburg, also active in the campaign being waged in the State. Miss Norcross was assisted in making arrangements by Miss Nellie Penrose, of Carlisle, a cousin of Senator Penrose, and Dr. Ruth A. Deeter, of Harrisburg, who together with a score or more of young women decorated the large suffrage booth at the grove.

Hundreds of people congregate hourly around the booths, the women circulating much literature, and making short addresses from the booth. Speakers this week are Miss Bakewell, Dr. Deeter and Mrs. Jones. Many souvenirs and other trinkets are sold also by the women.

The auditorium was decorated to-day in suffrage colors and pennants placed in the rooms. Invitations were extended and a large number of women from Harrisburg, members of the Central Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association, attended.

GERMANY TO PROTECT LIVES

Gives U. S. Written Pledge to Safeguard Liners.

VICTORY FOR PRESIDENT

Berlin Accepts Principle That Passenger Ships Shall Be Warned Before Attack by Submarines.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Germany has accepted the declarations of the United States in the submarine warfare controversy.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, gave oral and written assurances to Secretary Lansing that no more passenger ships will be sunk without warning.

After a conference at the state department, Ambassador von Bernstorff sent Secretary Lansing this letter: "My Dear Mr. Secretary—With reference to our conversation, I beg to inform you that my instructions concerning our answer to your last Lusitania note contains the following passage: 'Liners will not be sunk by our submarines without warning and without safety of the lives of non-combatants, provided that the liners do not try to escape or offer resistance.'"

"Although I know that you do not wish to discuss the Lusitania question till the Arabic incident has been definitely and satisfactorily settled, I desire to inform you of the above because this policy of my government was decided on before the Arabic incident occurred."

"I have no objection to your making any use you may please of the above information."

"I remain, my dear Mr. Lansing, 'Very sincerely yours,' 'J. BERNSTORFF'."

In connection with the letter, Secretary Lansing made the following statement: "In view of the clearness of the foregoing statement, it seems needless to make any comment in regard to it, other than to say that it appears to be a recognition of the fundamental principle for which we have contended."

Count von Bernstorff's letter was forwarded to President Wilson as soon as it was received at the state department. No formal comment was made at the White House, but of great hand in official quarters there was evidence of gratification that the submarine crisis had passed, and that Germany had acknowledged the justice of the principles for which President Wilson has been contending.

Count Bernstorff's announcement that the policy had been decided upon before the sinking of the Arabic agrees with statements by officials in Berlin upon which American officials had been depending. Soon after the dispatch of the last Lusitania note President Wilson understood there would not be another such disaster.

The sinking of the Arabic, therefore, came as a double shock.

Inasmuch as it seems to have been established that the submarine which sank the Arabic has been destroyed by a British patrol boat, the exact circumstances may never be determined, other than by testimony from British and American sources.

The German government's statement that before the sinking of the Arabic the submarine commanders had been ordered to sink no more passenger ships without warning may be taken as a disavowal of that act.

The question of reparation for the Americans who lost their lives on the Lusitania, the Arabic and other ships which have been torpedoed probably will be the next step in the proceedings.

Secretary Lansing has steadfastly refused to discuss the Lusitania case with the German ambassador until the Arabic incident was disposed of. Now, it is believed, the way has been opened for considering the Lusitania.

Apparently the American government has accepted the German declaration as meeting its attitude toward the treatment of all neutral shipping as well as passenger carrying vessels.

BALL FOR BRUMBAUGH

"Pennsylvania Day" to Be Celebrated at Exposition on Saturday.

San Francisco, Sept. 2.—The entertainment of Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh, of Pennsylvania, and his staff was continued by city officials and directors of the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Trips to points of interest were made by the visitors, with a reception and ball at the California building in Governor Brumbaugh's honor marking the end of the day's festivities.

Arrangements have been completed for the celebration of "Pennsylvania Day" at the exposition on Saturday.

ALLIES LOST 20,000 KILLED, SAYS TURKS

Report Terrific Fighting on Gallipoli Peninsula.

Turkish headquarters on the Gallipoli Peninsula, Sept. 2.—It has been impossible to ascertain the total loss of the British in the Anafarta region in the fighting which followed the landing of a fresh expeditionary force on Aug. 6 and 7.

The losses in dead on the whole Gallipoli front, which the allies sustained as a result of the general offensive movement coincident with the Anafarta landing, exceed 20,000 men. Most of the bodies are still unburied.

Officers at the Turkish headquarters are of the opinion that the British have expended in the actions of the last two weeks nearly all the troops landed on Aug. 6 and 7.

The Turkish losses are not light, but they do not approach those of the British. The ground thus far occupied by the British is of little military value, if an attack on the Dardanelles forts is their objective.

From the stories of the prisoners it would appear that the great heat and lack of sufficient food and good water is having a depressing effect on the British forces on the Gallipoli peninsula.

GERMANS WORSTED IN VOSGES

Artillery Duel Between Armies Hotly Waged For Nearly a Week.

London, Sept. 2.—Renewed German attacks in the Vosges resulting in the repulse of the Kaiser's troops at Linz and Schatzmaennle are reported by the French war office.

In their attacks the Germans again made use of shells containing asphyxiating gases.

The artillery duel between the opposing armies is increasing in violence. The Germans have opened a lively bombardment of the entire French front.

For a period now of five or six days on the western front a rain of shells from French guns has poured on the German trenches. The object of this unusual artillery attack has not been disclosed, but it is not believed that so much precious ammunition would be used merely to damage the German works without some sort of concerted effort to occupy the shattered trenches.

AMERICAN SHIP FIRED ON

German Submarine Holds Up Bark Off Coast of Ireland.

Boston, Sept. 2.—The American bark Ruth Starke, of Boston, was held up by a German submarine while bound from Liverpool for this port, on Aug. 3.

According to Captain Rawding, the submarine fired first what was probably meant as a warning for her to leave, but a second shot, he said, appeared to be aimed at his vessel. Sails were being lowered when the second shot was fired.

Soon afterward the submarine came alongside and after learning the identity of the bark and her destination permitted her to proceed.

Took Americans From Liner.

New York, Sept. 2.—Officers of the steamship Noordam, which arrived from Rotterdam, said that the vessel, on her voyage leaving New York on Aug. 3, was stopped and held for five hours by British authorities at Kirkwall, when three of her passengers were taken off. They were Andrew D. Meloy, Miss Hattie E. Brady and E. V. Gasche, the former claiming to be naturalized Americans and the latter, a subject of Switzerland.

GERMANS TAKE 1,100,000 SLAVS

Places Dead and Wounded in Russia at 300,000.

FIFTEEN GENERALS CAPTURED

Geneva Report Says Czar's Troops Escaped Trap by Cutting Their Way Through German Lines to the North.

Berlin, Sept. 2.—Official figures issued here place the Russian killed and wounded in the eastern theater of the war, since May 2, at 300,000 men.

The number of prisoners taken by the victorious Austro-German troops in their operations against the Russians is placed at 1,100,000 men, and this is declared to be a conservative estimate.

The official war office statement declares that during the month of August alone more than 2000 officers and 269,839 men were captured, together with 2300 cannon and 500 machine guns.

For the first time the amount of booty taken at Kovno and Novogeorgievsk, the two great fortresses which crumbled under the fire of the heavy German siege guns, was definitely announced.

At Kovno 20,000 men and 827 cannon fell to the German arms, while at Novogeorgievsk 90,000 prisoners, including fifteen generals and more than 1000 other officers, were taken. At this fortress 1200 cannon and 150 machine guns were also seized.

Progress is reported in the fighting all along the eastern front and especially in the region of Grodno. This the last of the great Russian strongholds in the north of Poland, is in imminent danger of capture. German forces already have reached the outer positions of Grodno and have begun the attack.

Lutsk Falls to Teutons.

Vienna, Sept. 2.—The Russian fortress of Lutsk has been captured by the Teutonic forces, it was officially announced by the Austrian war office.

Russians Escape Trap.

Geneva, Sept. 2.—Extricating themselves from a trap set by Field Marshal von Mackensen and Prince Leopold of Bavaria, eight Russian divisions (approximately 144,000 men) escaped from the forces rapidly surrounding them and joined the field army defending Grodno, according to a dispatch from a correspondent of the Tribune sent from Radom, Poland.

The Russians had to cut their way through the German lines to the north of them.

The same correspondent says that the Germans are suffering terrific losses.

"Russian troops in the Bielek region," he says, "are incessantly counter attacking their enemy, inflicting a loss of 15,000 daily between Brest Litovsk and Bielek, and 20,000 daily between Bielek and Grodno. Before occupying Narew, which the Russians evacuated, the Germans lost 30,000 killed in one afternoon."

Germans Checked in South.

Petrograd, Sept. 2.—Successful Russian counter attacks on a wide front in the Stripsa river district, eastern Galicia, are reported in a Russian official statement given out here. The Russians claim to have captured 3000 prisoners, thirty cannon and thirty-four machine guns.

GRAND JURY TO PROBE FRANK'S DEATH

Ordered to Make a Right Investigation.

Marietta, Ga., Sept. 2.—The Cobb county grand jury drawn for the September term was charged by Judge H. J. Patterson to investigate the "recent lynching in this county" and at the close of the day several witnesses had been examined for information they might have on the hanging of Leo M. Frank.

Indications were that the jurors could conclude the examination of the thirty-five witnesses called in time to report today.

Judge Patterson was emphatic on three points in his charges: "That the crime should be thoroughly investigated; that this was not a special grand jury, as had been reported, and that the jurors were not 'secret service men' compelled to do detective work to perform their duties."

He said that Cobb county never had needed a special grand jury and inferred that the Frank lynching was not the sole cause of reconvening the jury that served during the July court term.

YOUNG ELOPERS CAUGHT

Boy, 16, and Girl, 15, Are Returned to Their Brooklyn Homes.

Tamaqua, Pa., Sept. 2.—"Hey, Chief! where can we get a drink of water?" This question, put to Chief of Police Ehrig, led to the capture of Viola Stevens, aged fifteen, and Max Goodman, aged sixteen, who had eloped from Brooklyn, N. Y., last Friday evening.

When questioned both admitted their identity. Miss Stevens was in boy's clothing, having cut off her curls and donned male attire. They carried a camping outfit and when unable to secure indoor quarters lived in the woods.

In answer to telegrams, Mrs. Adelaide Stevens, mother of the girl, and Henry Goodman, brother of the boy arrived in Tamaqua, and both were taken to their homes.

A reward of $500, offered by Mrs. Stevens for the recovery of her daughter, will be given to Chief of Police Ehrig.

"One of the greatest benefactors of humanity in Pittsburgh" is rather a high sounding way of referring to a fourteen-year-old scout, but that is what the doctors of the Southside hospital say about Howard Evans, a member of Southside troop No. 10. My Fairylard.

I went to Fairylard this morn.
I went before the day was born.
A dewy path I walked along
Until I heard a fairy's song.

Beneath a giant tree I sat,
With grass and clover for a mat.
The busy bees began to hum;
They were so glad that I had come.

The meadow lark now welcomed me
From where he hopped beneath the tree.
A little squirrel just peeped out
To make his bow and hang about.

The fuzzy worm came forth to add
His greeting too; he was so glad.
The clover red began to play.
Entreating me that I should stay.

I'm glad I've found the fairylard.

That have such power, such charm to give
And make me see and know they live.

A FAMOUS MISER.

Cooke Died Wealthy After a Life of Petty Saving and Trickery.

Thomas Cooke, known as the "Islington miser," left at his death more than $300,000. His whole life was one of penny, petty saving and petty trickery. He made it a habit in order to get meals for nothing to fall in a pretended fit in front of a house at dinner time and on recovering he would naturally be invited to share the meal, which he always did after the proper amount of protestation. Often he would pretend to these kind people that they had saved his life, would make a great fuss over them and tell them he intended to remember them or their children in his will.

One man, a poor relation, occasionally sent him small presents of butter. This angered Cooke, who said to him: "Why send me such dribbles, you who are to get thousands and thousands at my death? Send me a firkin." The firkin and several more were sent, but neither this legacy nor any of the others came to reality.

Like many men shrewd in petty ways, he was easily deceived in matters out of his own line. Thus once when his horse was sick he was too mean to pay a horse doctor and asked advice of a quack, who told him he must take thirty onions, drill a hole through each, put them on a string, put the necklace around the horse's neck and let it stay there. The expense of thirty onions was too much; he bought fifteen, and when, after many days, they had served their purpose, he took them to the servant and ordered her to make an onion porridge for the day's dinner.—Exchange.

Home Made Toothpowder.

An effective tooth powder which can be always recommended is made as follows: One ounce of precipitated chalk, half an ounce of carbonate of soda, half an ounce of powdered orris root. Mix well together and pass three times through a sieve. Place in a bottle or in tin until required for use. The carbonate of soda removes the grease from the teeth and prevents decay, and the powdered orris root keeps the gums healthy.

Resigned to It.

Taking oneself too seriously is supposed to be an American trait. At any rate, it is found in America. The late Edward Everett Hale in "We, the People," cites a remark of Thomas Carlyle apropos of this habit.

Margaret Fuller had perhaps taken herself the least bit too seriously. She had said that she had determined "to accept the universe."

"She had better," said Carlyle.

U. S. LEADS WORLD AS AN EXPORTER

Passes the United Kingdom For First Time in History.

TOTAL IS $2,768,600,000.

Department of Commerce Says Fiscal Period Ending June 30 Shows Increase of 17 Per Cent in Exports. Report on United Kingdom Shows Decrease of 30 Per Cent.

For the first time in its history the United States became the leading exporting nation of the world with the close of the fiscal year, June 30, 1915. American exports totaled $2,768,600,000 as against those of the United Kingdom with $2,170,000,000, and in issuing these figures the department of commerce adds, "Occasionally we have surpassed the United Kingdom in the exportation of domestic products, but it was only in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915, that our total exports, domestic and foreign, exceeded those of the United Kingdom."

That the growth of this export business of the United States is working along the soundest of lines is shown by the fact that in the year 1821, the earliest year for which figures are available, exports of manufactures were valued at $8,000,000, while in 1915 they had grown to $1,100,000,000, exclusive of foodstuffs. This wholesome growth is also reflected in the monthly summary of the foreign commerce of the United States just issued by the department of commerce for June, 1915. The total exports for June, 1915, were $288,547,416 as against $157,072,014 in June, 1914. And in spite of the great part played by munitions in these figures the whole export trade of the country has assumed a tone that speaks well for its continued growth when once peace comes back to the world of Europe.

Automobiles Outvalue Horses.

The place transportation occupies in modern warfare was illustrated in the leading part played by automobiles and horses in the exports from this country during June. For the first time in months the horseless carriage led the horse in value for export from the United States to Great Britain and France, the number of automobiles being 7,408, with a total value of $13,364,800, while 40,083 horses, valued at $8,003,419, were shipped for war use.

Although fewer cartridges and small arms were shipped abroad in June of this year as compared with the preceding month and less dynamite, there was an enormous increase in the amount of gunpowder and all other explosives.

There was another enormous proportionate increase in the number and value of horseshoes exported, while the wool manufactures sent abroad more than doubled in June the volume of exports of May. The manner in which harness and saddles are used up nowadays in the great war is shown by the fact that the exports of these two things in June amounted to an excess of $500,000 over the figures for May.

Here is a comparative table of the value of war materials exported from the United States in June as compared with those in May:

War Material Exports.

	May	June
Aeroplanes and parts	$14,561	$12,737
Automobiles	10,553.26	127,438
Barbed wire	1,527.66	1,190.43
Cartridges	2,055.63	2,452.32
Dynamite	16,778	76,600
Gunpowder	48,218	224,541
All other explosives	4,851.19	5,391.11
Fuzes	1,194.51	344.1
Harness and saddles	1,613.69	1,323.45
Horses	12,720.1	8,003,419
Horseshoes	1,007.1	463.4
Motorcycles	1,474	2,876
Wool manufactures	1,111,235.823	2,385,823
Auto Tires	4	288.8

That war times are having their influence on American made goods in lines that scarcely figure in the export tables of May, 1914, for example, is shown by the latest complete report of the department of commerce, which puts them into the June comparative tables.

In June, 1914, there was only $54,387 worth of brass bars, plates, etc., exported, while this June we sent abroad these goods to the value of $948,305. Our exports of sulphur and all other acids rose from a value of only $23,050 in June, 1914, to the large total of $418,107 in the same month this year. In knit goods, most of which are worn by soldiers, our exports were only valued at $231,070 in June of last year, while in the corresponding month of this year we sent abroad knit goods to the value of $1,300,412.

AUTOS FOR RURAL MAIL.

Service to Be Installed in Delaware Big Earning Expected.

Postmaster General Burleson has signed an order starting an automobile rural delivery service in Delaware which will reduce the cost of the service by one-fourth. The entire rural service of the state is to be covered. The cost of the present carrier service is $120,236; the cost of the new service will be $91,776, a saving of $28,460.

It is estimated the automobiles can be operated at least nine months of the year. The annual salary allowed the rural carriers for serving these motor routes is $1,800. The maximum for the horse drawn routes is $1,200.

The Right Place

The ideal place to live would be
A farm with meadows stretching wide
And right next door a grocery
And bakery on the other side;

A theater across the way,
With all the latest comedies,
And next to that a grand stand, say,
Where one could watch ten inning ties;

The cowbells ringing in the lanes,
While taxicabs and cars go by;
A station near with frequent trains;
Near restaurants and open sky;

An apple tree 'neath which to sit
And view the traffic in the street,
And movies on a screen to flit
While breezes blow from off the wheat;

A brook to croon, a hand to moisten;
The city sights, a country view;
A rural urban home, in short—
I think a place like that would do.

$15,000,000 MONTHLY
DEFICIT IN U. S. REVENUE.

More War Taxes Is Only Way to Prevent a Bond Issue.

A preliminary report by the commission of internal revenues suggests the inference that the war tax imposed by the act of Oct. 23, 1914, which expires by limitation in December, will have to be re-enacted next season if a bond issue is to be avoided. Another inference to be drawn from the statistics furnished is that there are in the country about 345 persons with annual incomes of more than $500,000 and about forty-one whose incomes are $1,000,000 or more.

The total receipts of internal revenue for the year ended June 30, 1915, amounted to $415,694,876.30, an increase of $35,690,482.34 over collections for the preceding year, the receipts for which were the highest up to that time. But $52,069,000 of this came from the war tax, without which there would have been a decrease of about $17,000,000. Even with the war tax the government is running on a monthly deficit of $15,000,000, so that without an unexpected increase in customs or internal revenues or an issue of bonds the supply of cash on hand would soon be reduced to the danger point.

The receipts from the war tax are divided in the report as follows:

Wines, champagne, liquors, cordials, etc., $2,307,301.97; grape brandy used in fortification of sweet wines, $138,283.56; fermented liquors (additional 50 cents per barrel), $18,713,070.88; special taxes relating to manufacture and sale of tobacco, cigars and cigarettes, $2,486,616.34; special taxes, including those of the operations of bankers, brokers, etc., $4,967,179.18; Schedule A (documentary stamps, etc.) $20,494,474.75; Schedule B (perfumery, cosmetics, etc.), $2,951,400.59; total, $52,069,126.29.

It should be noted, says the report, "that under the provisions of the act above mentioned receipts are for fractional parts of the fiscal year, as the tax on wines, grape brandy and fermented liquors became effective Oct. 23, 1914, the special taxes on Nov. 1 and stamp taxes on articles enumerated in Schedules A and B on Dec. 1 following."

EDISON TESTING BATTERY.

More Extensive Experiments Are to Be Made in Submarine E-2.

Thomas A. Edison has asked the United States naval authorities to reserve decision on his submarine storage battery until it has received a more thorough test in the submarine E-2.

The battery, designed to eliminate the formation of poisonous chlorine gas, has been tested in the Brooklyn navy yard, and it not only measured up to all the hopes of the inventor, but exceeded in efficiency by at least 20 per cent his expectations. But the drastic series of tests which the battery has already undergone is not enough for Mr. Edison.

"The expenditure of time and money upon the batteries will be wisely invested if they stand the test in the submarine as successfully as they have at the navy yard," said Mr. Edison. "It is a source of deep gratification to me that I have been able to eliminate dangerous gases from the submarine, protecting the health of the men on board and increasing the efficiency of the craft."

Mr. Edison, it is said, conducted 55,000 experiments in making the battery.

FOR : PRESIDENT : JUDGE

51ST JUDICIAL DISTRICT

Composed of

ADAMS AND FULTON COUNTIES

J. L. BUTT,
Of Gettysburg.

Jacob Lawrence Butt, born in Highland Township, living a quarter of a century in Franklin Township, Adams County, and more than twenty-five years in Gettysburg, has all the endowment of learning and judgment that years and experience can give a candidate for the President Judgeship. Born in 1860, he is now fifty-four years of age, and would bring to the Bench a full measure of maturity, legal acumen and ability.

J. L. Butt is more than the successful lawyer, with a large clientele. He has been connected with and in intimate touch with many important lines of activity of the people of the county, giving him a knowledge and an appreciation of our people, their environments and conditions. He was born on a farm and remained there until about twenty years of age, when he entered Pennsylvania College, and graduated from that institution in the Class of 1884. He read law with the late J. C. Neely, Esquire, and was admitted to practice in 1889. He immediately entered the law office of J. A. Kitzmiller, and remained with him in his office until after his death, succeeding largely to his practice.

While Mr. Butt spent the early part of his life on a farm he imbibed a strong fondness for farming and as he grew older and was able to put aside a portion of his earnings from his practice he invested them in farms, until to-day he is the owner of considerable real estate in this county. The farms he has purchased most immediately showed the touch of his fondness for them by the improved appearance of the buildings, the fences and the more productive-ness of the soil. More than one poor, dilapidated farm has he bought and converted it into a prosperous, nice-looking fertile property. Such a course is a great boon and benefit to a community, because it improves the appearance of that community and adds to its wealth and general appearance, and it is highly beneficial to any community to have money invested in this way, in the improvement of agricultural property. To invest in stocks and bonds and draw interest and income therefrom rarely benefits any one else but the holder.

He is one of the foremost stock breeders of the county and is as fond of his stock as of his farms. They have received the most skillful treatment and handling, with the result that the horse flesh of the county has been greatly improved.

He is also a fruit grower and has taken enthusiastically to the development of what many consider the county's greatest industry and best product. He has always followed the best improved methods in the planting, care of and marketing of the crops of his orchards, and encouraging such methods in every way in his power so that the people of the county may enjoy the best returns from this crop. Mr. Butt's activity along these lines was illustrated in the recent movement, in which he was prominent, to secure a resident farm advisor from the Government to help the farmers solve their difficulties, an official whose salary is paid by the Government and whose expenses are met by the county associations and individuals.

The THOUSANDTH WOMAN

BY ERNEST W. HORNING

Author of The Amateur Cracksmen, Raffles, Etc.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Cazale, on the steamer Essex, Fritz homeward bound from Australia, cries out in his sleep that Henry Craven, who ten years before had ruined his father and himself, is dead and finds that Hilton Toye, who shares the state-room with him, knows Craven and also Blanche Macnair, a former neighbor and former friend.

CHAPTER II—When the daily papers come aboard at Southampton Toye reads that Craven has been murdered and calls Cazale's dream second sight. He thinks of doing a little amateur detective work on the case himself.

CHAPTER III—In the train to town Cazale and Toye discuss the murder, which was committed at Cazale's old home. Toye hears from Cazale that Craven, who had been Cazale's friend and the scapegoat for Craven's dishonesty, has been released from prison.

CHAPTER IV—Cazale goes down river and meets Blanche.

CHAPTER V—Toye also comes to see Blanche and tells Cazale that Craven has been arrested, but as he doesn't believe the old clerk is guilty he is going to ferret out the murderer.

CHAPTER VI—Cazale and Blanche go to Cazale's old home and meet Mr. Drinkwater of Scotland Yard.

CHAPTER VII—Cazale goes with Drinkwater to the library, and the murder was committed, and a secret passage he knew of as a boy, and leads the way through it.

CHAPTER VIII—In the town Toye, talking with Cazale about the murder, finds finger prints on the weapon found in the secret passage as a means of trapping the murderer and succeeds in securing a print of Cazale's hand.

CHAPTER IX—Toye traces Cazale's movements while a passenger on the Kaiser Fritz, finds that he left the boat before the murder and returned just after it, and warns him.

CHAPTER X—Cazale and Blanche spend the week of their lives together.

CHAPTER XI—Blanche tells Cazale that she would stick to the "thousandth man" to the gallows' foot and after.

CHAPTER XII—Toye finds proof of Cazale's guilt and binds Blanche not to marry Cazale as the price of silence.

CHAPTER XIII.

Faith Unfaithful.

"It's all perfectly true," said Cazale calmly. "Those were my movements while I was off the ship, except for the five hours and a bit that I was away from Charing Cross. I can't dispute a detail of all the rest. But they'll have to fill in those five hours unless they want another case to collapse like the one against Scruton!"

Old Savage had wriggled like a venerable worm, in the experienced talons of the Bobby's Bugbear; but then Mr. Drinkwater and his discoveries had come still worse out of a hotter encounter with the truculent attorney; and Cazale had described the whole thing as only he could describe a given episode, down to the ultimate dismissal of the charge against Scruton, with a gusto the more cynical for the deliberately low pitch of his voice. It was in the little lodging-house sitting room at Nell Gwynne's Cottages; he stood with his back to the crackling fire that he had just lighted himself, as it were, already at bay; for the folding doors were in front of his face, and his eyes roved incessantly from the landing door on one side to the curtained casement on the other. Yet sometimes he paused to gaze at the friend who had come to warn him of his danger; and there was nothing cynical or grim about him then.

Blanche had broken her word for perhaps the first time in her life; but it had never before been extorted from her by duress, and it would be affection to credit her with much compunction on the point. Her one great qualm lay in the possibility of Toye's turning up at any moment; but this she had obliterated to some extent by coming straight to the cottages when he left her—presumably to look for Cazale in London, since she had been careful not to mention his change of address. Cazale, to her relief, but also a little to her hurt, had found at his lodgings in the neighborhood, full of the news he had not managed to communicate to her. But it was no time for taking anything but his peril to heart. And that they had been discussing, almost as man to man, if rather as innocent man to innocent man; for even now, or perhaps now in his presence least of all, Blanche could not bring herself to believe her old friend guilty of a violent crime, however unpremeditated, for which another had been allowed to suffer, for however short a time.

And yet he seemed to make no secret of it; and yet it did explain his whole conduct since landing, as Toye had said.

She could only shut her eyes to what must have happened, even as Cazale himself had shut his all this wonderful week, that she had forgotten all day in her ingratitude, but would never, in all her days, forget again!

"There won't be another case," she heard herself saying, while her thoughts ran ahead or lagged behind like sheep. "It'll never come out—I know it won't."

"Why shouldn't it?" he asked so sharply that she had to account for the words, to herself as well as to him.

"Nobody knows except Mr. Toye, and he means to keep it to himself."

"Why shouldn't he?"

"I don't know. He'll tell you himself."

"Are you sure you don't know?"

"What can he have to tell me? Why should he screen me, Blanche?"

"He's a friend of yours, isn't he?"

"Yes, but not a friend of mine."

"I mean that I don't know him."

CHINA ORDERS 100 U. S. SUBMARINES

Schwab Said to Have $75,000,000 Contract For Navy.

REPUBLIC'S DEFENSE PLAN.

These Boats to Be Largest in the World and Particularly Fitted For Raids on Seacoast Towns—American Plants Will Be Enlarged to Execute the Order.

Under the direction of Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, American war plants are to put the government of China on a basis of military and naval preparedness surpassing all efforts previously attempted by that republic.

Schwab has become the chief confidential adviser of the Chinese government on the vast manufacturing end of its program, this result being largely an outgrowth of the confidential relation established by the American steel man with leading Chinese officials in the $30,000,000 ammunition deal with the former Chinese dynasty by the Bethlehem Steel corporation a few years ago.

As an initial step 100 submarines will be built at a cost of $75,000,000, the greatest single order for submarines recorded since the underwater craft were invented.

The order for submarines will be followed by contracts for heavy field artillery, high explosive shells, torpedoes, rifles and other arms and munitions, with the construction of battleships and cruisers as one of the most distant possibilities.

The negotiations for submarines have reached such an advanced stage that only minor details remain to be worked out.

U Boats to Be Immense.

The submarines will be the largest U boats ever turned out from American yards. They will include vessels of a type exceeding in size and cruising range any of the submarines turned out in Germany of which this country yet has learned. They will be of a type particularly fitted for raids on seacoast towns, so that they will be as formidable for attack as for defense.

Unlike the orders for submarines placed on this side of the Atlantic by the allies, the construction will be done entirely in the United States and none of it in Canada, as naturally no question of violation of neutrality is involved.

The order will be placed by the Chinese government through Schwab with the Electric Boat company. This order, combined with the demand by the allies for submarine work in this country, has resulted in plans by Schwab whereby the United States will have the largest submarine manufacturing plants in the world, barring neither the submarine departments of the Krupp in Germany nor that of the Schneider works at Creusot, France.

Plants Will Be Enlarged.

This will be accomplished through a combination and an extensive enlargement of the Electric Boat company, which holds the patents on the Holland submarines, with those of the Bethlehem Steel corporation. In connection with those plans Schwab has become a principal factor in the management of the Electric Boat company, although he has not yet appeared openly as such.

Within a month the Electric Boat company will be reorganized into the Submarine Boat corporation, recently chartered at Albany, before which time the names of the officers of the new corporation will be made known. One of the leading bankers of New York will become president of the new corporation. He represents interests closely identified with Schwab.

Construction of the submarines for China will done at the plants of the Fore River Shipbuilding company at Quincy, Mass., and the Union Iron works at San Francisco and the factories of the New London Ship and Engine company at Groton, Conn.

A member of the Chinese diplomatic service, when questioned regarding the submarine contract, admitted that his country is in the international market for all classes of warships and armaments.

It was learned that two officials of the Chinese naval board were in New York less than a month ago to study the market and make arrangements for the construction of the submarines. These two Chinese, Commissioners Wei and Sz, were in Washington as the guests of the Chinese legation.

COURTESIES AMONG AIR MEN.

Foes Express Written Regret For War's Deadly Demands.

A strange courtesy of war which attends the fraternity of air men, regardless of the fact that they are divided into hostile camps, was reported by English army aviators on leave of absence in London.

If a British aviator kills a German aviator he makes a second flight over the enemy's lines, drops a note expressing regret that the demands of war made his action necessary and asks that his sympathies be carried to the dead aviator's family.

A young English aviator started the practice several weeks ago. The Germans promptly reciprocated.

To Fireproof Clothing.

Muslin and cotton goods can be rendered fireproof by putting an ounce of alum in the last rinsing water, or by putting it in the starch.

NOTABLES IN THE LIMELIGHT

Archduke of Austria, Who May Be King of Poland.

Since the final partition of Poland in 1795 between Russia, Austria and Prussia that one time kingdom of central Europe has been a nation only in name. Long before that time, however, it had begun to decline. In the partition Russia got as her share more than three-fourths of the original kingdom, which in the third quarter of the sixteenth century was the most powerful in central Europe, with an area of 350,000 square miles and a population of 35,000,000.

Since the fall of Warsaw there have been rumors that Poland is again to be a kingdom, and it is said that the Archduke Charles Stephen of Austria will be proclaimed king.

The archduke, a cousin of the Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, was born at Gross-Seelowitz on Sept. 5, 1889, the son of the Archduke Charles Ferdinand. He married Maria Theresa in 1908 in Vienna, and they have six children, the eldest son being Archduke Charles Albert, who is an artillery officer in the Austrian army.

Archduke Charles Stephen holds the rank of an admiral in the German navy and is honorary colonel of the Eleventh regiment of infantry. He is a knight of the Order of the Golden Fleece and holds the Golden Cross of Honor of the Order of Malta. He is knight of the Order of the Red Eagle and of the Order of the Black Eagle.

Federal Trade Commission.

The new federal trade commission, which is now going from city to city conferring with business men in relation to the trade of the nation, was created by act of congress on Sept. 23, 1914. Like the interstate commerce commission, which has jurisdiction over the railroads, it is an independent body and is accountable to congress and not to any member of the cabinet. The commissioners are appointed by the president for a term of seven years, at an annual salary of $10,000. Their expenses are paid while traveling. Joseph E. Davies of Wisconsin is chairman of the commission, and Edward N. Hurley of Illinois is vice chairman. The functions of the trade commission are to investigate the organization, conduct and management of any corporation, joint stock company or corporate combination (except common carriers engaged in commerce among the several states and with foreign nations) and to gather such information and data as will enable the president of the United States to make recommendation to congress for legislation for the regulation of such commerce.

EDWARD N. HURLEY.

Edward N. Hurley, vice chairman of the commission, is fifty-one years old and is the only member not a college graduate. He was a locomotive fireman and an engineer on the Burlington railroad and then traveling salesman. As the originator of the pneumatic tool industry in the United States and Europe he made a fortune, and, retiring from business, established a country home at Wheaton, Ill., and engaged in farming and stock breeding. When made a member of the commission he was president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, a machine company and a national bank.

Medical Advertising NEED THE WARNING

Many Gettysburg People Have Done So.

When the kidneys are weak they give unmistakable warnings that should not be ignored. By examining the urine and treating the kidneys upon the first sign of disorder, many days of suffering may be saved. Weak kidneys usually expel a dark, ill-smelling urine, full of "brickdust" sediment and painful in passage. Sluggish kidneys often cause a dull pain in the small of the back, headaches, dizzy spells, tired languid feelings and frequent rheumatic twinges.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. There is no better recommended remedy.

Gettysburg people endorse Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Anna Flaharty, 311 Washington St., Gettysburg, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills during the past several years and am willing to tell of my experience for the benefit of other kidney sufferers. I had weak kidneys for a long time and was also subject to headaches and backaches. Doan's Kidney Pills have removed all these troubles. There is no better remedy for the kidneys."

DROP FULLAM AT ANNAPOLIS

Academy Head Transferred to the Pacific.

CAPT. EBERLE FOR PLACE

Rear Admiral Relieved at Naval School Following Revelations About Examination Dope.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Rear Admiral William Fullam, superintendent of the naval academy at Annapolis, has been transferred to the command of the Pacific reserve fleet, it was announced at the navy department, to succeed Rear Admiral Charles F. Pond, who is transferred to the command of the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard.

Captain Edwin W. Eberle, commandant of the Washington navy yard, is to succeed Rear Admiral Fullam as superintendent of the naval academy at Annapolis.

While Acting Secretary Roosevelt issued the orders for the new assignments, he acted at the direction of Secretary Daniels, who is on a tour of inspection of Atlantic coast naval stations. No reasons were given in the department's announcement of the changes.

Rear Admiral Fullam was detailed as superintendent of the academy on Feb. 7, 1914. His action last spring in recommending the dismissal of seven midshipmen for irregularity in examinations led to an investigation by a board of inquiry, attended by revelations concerning the widespread use of so-called "dope" at examinations.

The board recommended the dismissal of two of the midshipmen and the imposition of less severe penalties on the others involved, and urged radical changes in the method of conducting examinations. The report was approved so far as the disciplinary measures were concerned, but the examination changes will be worked out through the new superintendent.

Admiral Fullam now is in command of the academy practice squadron which has just passed through the Panama canal on the homeward journey from San Francisco. The order for his relief at the academy becomes effective Sept. 20.

The petition contains nothing to throw any light on the identity of Francis other than to give his name.

DOCTOR AND MAID
MYSTERIOUSLY SHOT

Physician Fired Upon From Passing Motor Dies.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 2.—Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, of this city and Newport, and his maid, Miss Emily Barker, were shot while on their way to Newport by some mysterious person or persons in a motor car, while Dr. Mohr's car was standing near West Barrington.

Dr. Mohr died from his injuries and Miss Barker is in a serious condition. The police have no clue to the assassins.

The police announced that George W. Heals, the colored chauffeur, had made a statement involving himself and another colored man in the shooting.

The doctor was making his regular night trip in a car to Newport. At a dark spot in the road near West Barrington George W. Heals, his colored chauffeur, stopped the car, complaining that the carburetor was not working properly.

The chauffeur had opened the hood of the car and walked around to the right side, when another car, which had been following that of the doctor, approached. From this car five revolver shots were fired. Four of them took effect. Dr. Mohr was shot in the back of the head and through the back of the right shoulder. Miss Barker, who jumped up at the first shot, was hit also in the head and in the shoulder. The doctor fell back into the car. Miss Barker fell outward, toppling over the side.

YOUNG FOLKS' CORNER

Flowers of Many Countries.

The thistle, a plant with prickly stem and leaves, is the national flower of Scotland. It was chosen because the Scotch think it saved some of them from an enemy. This is the story: A long time ago a great army marched quietly into a Scotch city one night. They thought they could easily capture the city, for all the people would be sleeping. But just as they reached the city a barefooted soldier stepped on a thistle, which stung him so badly that he cried aloud. He was heard by the Scotch soldiers, who woke the people and they saved the city.

The shamrock, a kind of clover plant, is the flower of Ireland. St. Patrick first used it in telling of the Holy Trinity. There is a superstition that snakes will not touch this plant.

The fleur-de-lis is the emblem of France, but it is not known whether this comes from the tame lily or the iris or flag lily. There are many stories about the origin of this emblem, one of them being that an angel gave it to King Clovis when he was baptized.

The chrysanthemum, the flower of Japan, decorates much of the embroidery done by these people and the chrysanthemum fete is celebrated every year in Japan.

The flower of England is the beautiful rose, the queen of all flowers, which has blooms of many colors.

Goldy's Guest.

Goldy received his name some fourteen years ago, when he was a fluffy yellow kitten. Now he is a big, handsome cat with long soft fur almost orange in color.

One day not long ago Goldy went out into the highway, found a little field mouse and brought him home in his mouth.

Goldy's mistress keeps on the floor a clean newspaper, which serves as Goldy's dining table. The feast was spread when Goldy walked in and gently placed his little mouse right in the middle of it.

Whatever may have been his motive or whatever conversation passed between him and his guest, this much is certain: Goldy settled himself comfortably on the floor at a convenient distance from his guest, winked first with one eye and then with the other and began to sing.

The little mouse was unharmed, and after recovering from his fright he began to eat the dinner. Nibbling daintily at the food, he tasted first one thing and then another.

However, with apologies Goldy's mistress carried the little mouse outdoors and gave him his liberty. So, thanks to Goldy, one little field mouse had an amazing adventure to tell his family when he reached home.—Youth's Companion.

The Spartans.

A dancer once said to a Spartan: "You cannot stand so long on one leg as I can." "Perchance not," said the Spartan; "but any goose can."

Some Spartans as they traveled met a person who told them they were most fortunate, for a gang of robbers had just left the place. "No," answered one of them, "the robbers were the fortunate ones."

A traveler, observing the respect commanded by age in Sparta, said: "Here alone it is a pleasure to grow old."

A Spartan mother presented a shield to her son going to battle, with these words: "Son! return either with this, or upon this."

Another, to a son who complained that his sword was too short. "Add a step to it."

Demaratus, king of Sparta, being asked whether he was silent through folly or wisdom, replied: "A fool cannot be silent."

A Great Relief.

An old organ blower lay on his deathbed. He was a good old fellow, and everybody liked him. He had always been ready to do anything and everything connected with the church without complaining, but had evidently had his own troubles which he had kept locked in his breast.

The curate was with the old man, soothing and comforting him as best he could.

"Would you mind, sir," said the sick man, "asking the organist to play the dead march over me? I just love that dead march!"

"Certainly, with pleasure, Mr. Jones," replied the curate.

"Thank'ee, sir; none o' that there tweedledur Beethoven, you know, but Handel's."

"I can promise that much, my good man," said the curate.

The old man lay placidly for awhile and then exclaimed with fervor, "How thankful I am that I shan't have to blow for him when he plays the loud part at the end!"

Uses of Molybdenite.

The mining of molybdenite is becoming an important industry in Tasmania, where extensive deposits of this rare mineral have recently been found. Molybdenite is used for a variety of purposes, but its principal value is in the manufacture of steel, to which it gives a hardness and toughness that make the steel suitable for use in propeller shafts, guns and boilers.

The Farm Engine.

In selecting an engine for farm work the prospective purchaser will find it economical to get an engine that will develop a little surplus power. It costs a trifle more and is a little more expensive to operate, but it carries the load without the wear and tear that an engine undergoes when overloaded.

Cutshaw of Brooklyn.

George Cutshaw can thank Bill Dahlen for his success. When George joined the Brooklyn team the managers of the coast clubs, where he had been playing, including Harry Wolverton, predicted that Cutshaw would fail. Bill admitted that the lad might not set the world on fire as a sticker, but decided he would make good generally and hung on to him. Cutshaw is hitting around the 270 mark.

AN INNOVATION IN VEST EFFECTS.

continue popular, and this one-piece frock is in brown and green check, trimmed with changeable taffeta.

The one-piece frock has been called the first-aid to the well-dressed woman's wardrobe, and certainly it finds a conspicuous place among the modes for Fall. Checks and small plaids continue in fashionable request for these dresses, with trimmings of plain silk and velvet to enhance their daintiness. The touch of novelty which this model boasts is achieved through the vest, which is continued down onto the skirt in a pointed section and trimmed with buttons of velvet. The front goes of the three-piece skirt are perforated to be cut away for the insertion of this pointed section, but if preferred, the front lap may be continued in a straight line to the top of the skirt, and the pointed section cut away from the vest.

In medium size the model calls for 3 1/2 yards 54-inch material, with 3/4 yard 40-inch silk for the collar, belt, cuffs and buttons.

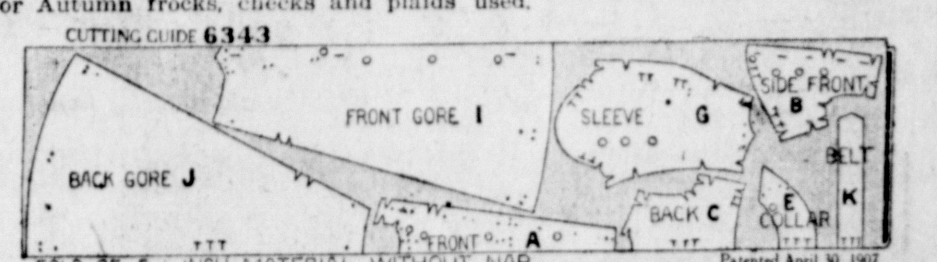

The back gore is placed on the fold of material first, in cutting the dress and, contrary to usual custom, the lower edge of the gores is placed nearest the crosswise edge of the goods—that is, at the very beginning after the material has been folded in half. The front gores reverse this position and has the waist-line pointing to the left of the cutter and the lower edge to the right. The front is laid near the lengthwise fold, but not on the edge, and to the right of this is the back, followed by the collar and belt, all on the fold.

To the right of the front gore, and on a lengthwise thread is the sleeve, with the side-front coming after the sleeve.

There are not any startling changes in the lines of one-piece frocks, but there is a growing tendency to favor more fitting lines, with a slight curve at the waist-line and, of course, a greater fullness in the skirt.

Belts of suede and velvet are to figure conspicuously in the trimming of plaid frocks, regardless of the material used.

Although dark colors are in the lead for Autumn frocks, checks and plaids used.

C. T. LOWER

MY ODD UNCLE

By DWIGHT NORWOOD

My uncle's life had been blighted by an ill assorted marriage. In every other respect he was to be envied or would have been had it not been for his marriage. He was prosperous in business affairs and accumulated a fortune. But no children were born to him during the brief period of his marriage, and after his separation from his wife he never entered upon a second matrimonial adventure.

I was his only male relative, and after hesitating for some time between leaving his property in trust for a philanthropic work and leaving it to me he finally came to the conclusion to allow it to accumulate through my lifetime. I to establish the foundation that he intended. But this plan was contingent on my agreeing not to marry.

His proposition to me, if accepted, would give me every comfort and luxury so long as I lived, but would deprive me of wife and children. I did not agree with my uncle on the subject of matrimony because I knew that, though a splendid man, he must be a very hard man to get on with. He seemed to be fond of me, and if I wanted anything I had only to ask him for it. Yet I dared not oppose him in any of his prejudices. The difference between me and the wife from whom he separated was that I understood him and had the tact to manage him, while she failed in both these respects.

My aunt was much younger than my uncle—she was but little my senior—and, being conscious of her inability to get on with him, came to rely on me to help her manage him when a deadlock came between them. I was born old and never given to acting upon impulse, while she was sensitive and had no faculty for going around a stone wall instead of over it.

My uncle's proposition—which ignored my aunt—placed me in the position of taking what belonged rightfully to her. In making my decision I was influenced far more by what was my duty to her than to carry out my uncle's intentions.

I accepted the condition, and my uncle made his will, leaving his property in trust to me. I to have so much of the income as I chose to appropriate to myself, but in consideration of this I gave my word to him that I would never marry, and the will stipulated that in case I did marry the property was to pass out of my hands and the foundation was to be established. Under this condition it would be practically impossible for me to marry, one of the reasons being that I would be obliged to drop from affluence to poverty, a very unpleasant fall.

... according to my uncle's wishes I asked my aunt if she would disapprove of my doing so, and she told me that since she could not benefit by her husband's property, she preferred that I should do so. However, before accepting the proposition I made bold to tell him plainly that his separation from his wife was principally his own fault and that he was doing her a great injustice to leave her property, or, rather, his income, to me instead of to her. I expected that this would alter his determination, but was surprised that it had no effect whatever to deter him from his purpose. Indeed, it seemed to confirm him in it.

I did not promise not to turn over a part of the income from his estate to his wife. My privilege to do so would have satisfied me with the position I assumed had it not been that I was pledged to celibacy. Moreover, there was a woman whom I wished to marry. When the papers had been signed I informed my uncle of this fact, though I did not tell him who that woman was. He merely said, "You should thank me, my boy, for saving you from a life of misery."

Upon the completion of the agreement my uncle gave me the position of his right hand man that I might be prepared to manage his estate after his death. He was certainly a very queer man, and no one could tell what he would do. Two years after our compact he was taken suddenly ill. He called for me and said:

"I have been told by my doctor that I have but a few days at most to live. The approach of death has made a change in my feelings. It is a part of a new plan I have made that you should marry."

I looked at him in astonishment. When I had recovered from my surprise I said to him:

"If I marry there is but one woman in the world I will make my wife."

"You will marry the woman I intend you shall marry or I will make a new will, leaving you out in the cold."

He was very weak, and I knew there was no time to waste.

"Whom do you require that I shall marry?" I asked.

"The woman whose life I have made miserable."

My heart came up into my throat but I controlled any expression of my emotion.

"Have you obtained her consent?"

"Yes."

"Very well, I will not stand in the way of your doing this last act of justice."

I have always been balanced between two opinions as to the prime motive of my uncle's act. Either he was so desirous that he wished to marry me to a woman I did not love, thus separating me from one I did love, or he had observed the love that had sprung up between me and the woman I had just married. But to do him justice I believe he was repentant toward her.
